

Barbarians Prehistory: From the Mesolithic to the end of the Iron Age

Hilary Term 2018, Institute of Archaeology, Lecture Room, Fridays 4-5pm

Week 1: 19th January

Why is there so little inequality in prehistoric Europe? An anarchy theory approach.

Professor John Robb (University of Cambridge).

Week 2: 26th January

The History of a Monster, by Professor Paul Jacobsthal.

Dr Helen Chittock and Dr Peter Hommel (University of Oxford).

Week 3: 2nd February

No lecture

Week 4: 9th February

Casts and characters: New approaches to investigating bronze (and why they really annoy some people).

Dr Peter Bray (University of Oxford).

Week 5: 16th February

Preserving the hidden seeds: what happened to Celtic art in Roman Britain?

Dr Susan Walker (University of Oxford).

Week 6: 23rd February

Rethinking the Scythian royal kurgans: Burial as a form of social storage.

Dr Caspar Meyer (Birkbeck, University of London).

Week 7: 2nd March

Becoming metallic: mapping the emergence of copper alloy axes in Britain and Ireland.

Dr Rachel Crellin (University of Leicester).

Week 8: 9th March

Title TBC,

Ben Ford (Oxford Archaeology).

For further information, please contact Helen Chittock: helen.chittock@arch.ox.ac.uk

